Jordan Perry Reveals a Darker, Cinematic Side with New Single sleep.o

Saskatoon-based electronic artist Jordan Perry steps beyond his Synthwave roots to unveil a haunting, cinematic new single, sleep.o. What began as a personal reflection grew into a dark meditation on false leaders and control - themes that feel urgent today.

“This feels like a heavy moment in history,” Perry reflects. “I wrote this song years ago, but it feels more relevant now than ever.”

Anchored by Perry’s evocative vocals and textured electronic soundscapes, sleep.o is further elevated by a sweeping orchestral arrangement from Andrew Joslyn, whose acclaimed credits include work with the Seattle Symphony, Kesha, and Macklemore. The collaboration weaves together cinematic grandeur and intimate emotion, creating a sound that feels both otherworldly and deeply human.

sleep.o will be available on all major streaming platforms October 25th.
